*The range indicated was tested according to WLTP [Worldwide harmonised Light Vehicles Test Procedure] regulations. Please note that the EV range of Electric cars is influenced by environmental and internal factors. Such factors that can affect the range include but are not limited to: the external temperature (for example, the optimal external temperature for an electric car is 22 degrees C), the temperature of the battery, use of the vehicle (urban, motorway), average driving speed and driver behaviour, and the use of electrical features such as air-conditioning. As a result, the achievable range of each specific car depends on these, and other factors, and the average range may be lower during daily usage. For example, during winter months (temperature below 10 degrees C), the range may vary between 320km to 390km. Whereas during summer months (above 10 degrees C) the range may vary between 390km and up to 505kms. Further deviation from these values might also be possible under prevailing conditions.
